

Waldo Nuez

Dr Waldo Nuez owes a background in aquatic nutrition supported by more than 13 years of combined academic and industry experience. His expertise revolves around understanding how production strategies and environmental stressors impact growth efficiency, health and product quality, and developing new feeding strategies accordingly, including the use of novel feed ingredients and additives.