AquaFarm, the third edition takes shape. Save the date: 13 - 14 February 2019 at Pordenone Fiere Exhibition Center (Venice Area) Italy

Exhibitors response is very good: the number of companies is growing as well as the average area booked.

Pordenone, 27 July 2018. Save the date: 13 and 14 February 2019 and participate in the third edition of AquaFarm, the flagship event for aquaculture, algaculture and fishing industry in the Mediterranean basin. The 2019 edition will be in conjunction with Novelfarm, the international conference and tradeshow on new growing systems, soilless and vertical farming.

AquaFarm is unique for the winner synergy among a rich agenda of conferences and seminars and the large international exhibition area and meeting opportunities at all levels of the supply chain: from producers of machinery to feeders, from consultants in fish farming and mollusc farming to breeders, from transformers to distributors, as well as research institutes, universities and representatives of Local, Regional, National and EU institutions.

For the third edition, the organizers are working in collaboration with the stakeholders and the major experts to develop a program that covers all the most important topics regarding the breeding of fish and other aquatic species and the cultivation and harvesting of algae. A role of the highest level is that of API, the Italian Fish Farmers Association, which immediately has believed in the event.

At the same time, the commercial activity towards the companies is continuing at full speed. Several national and foreign companies have renewed their participation and others have decided to invest in the event after participating as visitors in 2018.

Some of the exhibitors confirmed: Acquazzurra, ACQUAFERTMech, Aller Aqua, A.T.Innovazione, Avkem. B&C Electronics, Badinotti, Consorzio Pescatori di Goro, Coppens, Fatro, Lamar Udine, Milanese, NaturAlleva, Ribola Retificio, Sita, Skretting, Tecnos, Veronesi.
